

#DigitalDecade4YOUth:

Making Europe's Digital Decade fit for children and young people

Fields marked with * are mandatory.

About this survey

As part of its vision and avenues for Europe's digital transformation by 2030, the European Commission and other decision makers want to ensure that the digital world is fit for the future and can allow everyone to benefit from all the opportunities it can offer. As part of a wider consultation process, from May to October 2021, children, young people, parents and carers, teachers and educators, and other stakeholders from across the European Union are being consulted on the priorities they see to promote, protect, respect and fulfil children rights in a digital world.

Consultation work to date has already gained insights from some 750 children and young people through 70 focus groups. We now wish to gather wider input from those stakeholders who care for, educate, or can otherwise influence positive online opportunities and experiences for Europe's children and young people.

In this survey, we ask you a series of questions, based on the questions which children and young people were consulted on so that we can compare perspectives. We ask you to consider the opportunities and benefits which children and young people can gain from being online, the challenges and risks which they might face, and who you think is (or should be) responsible for improving online experiences. We also ask for your views on what policy makers need to do over the next decade to bring about change. Please note, in this survey we are specifically referring to children and young people up to the age of 18.

Alongside the responses already received from children and young people, the feedback provided in this survey will contribute to the development of a set of digital principles for an interinstitutional declaration between the European Commission, the European Parliament and the Council to be published in late 2021, and to the new Better Internet for Kids \(BIK\) Strategy to be adopted in 2022.

Section 1: Are you...?

When submitting your response, please choose one perspective for the purposes of responding to this survey. If, for example, you are both a parent and a teacher, or have/teach children across two age groupings, please answer from one of these perspectives. Please feel free, however, to complete the survey multiple times from the different perspectives you hold - all such feedback is very valuable to us!

It is essential that children and young people in vulnerable or marginalised situations (such as children with disabilities; migrant/Roma/refugee children; children in care; LGBTQ+ children; children living in poverty) are able to access and engage in the digital environment in the same way as all other children and young people. In your opinion, what particular provisions are needed to ensure that this can happen?

What next?

As outlined above, the responses you have given in this survey will feed into the ongoing European Union policy-making cycle, in particular the development of a set of digital principles for an interinstitutional declaration between the European Commission, the European Parliament and the Council in late 2021, and to the new Better Internet for Kids (BIK) Strategy to be adopted in 2022.

The topics covered in this survey will also be the focus of discussions at the forthcoming Safer Internet Forum (SIF), taking place online on Wednesday, 6 and Thursday, 7 October 2021. The SIF will showcase key findings from recent consultation work, amplifying the voices of children and young people to deliver a vision for a #DigitalDecade4YOUth. The event will highlight the priorities that different groups, including parents, carers and teachers, have identified in order to fulfil children's rights in a digital world, while allowing them to engage, create and contribute within safe, ethical and inclusive online spaces.

All are welcome to attend this free event, but advance registration is required. Find out more and register online at www.betterinternetforkids.eu/sif.
