EuroHealthNet

for a healthier Europe between and within countries

What is EuroHealthNet?

EuroHealthNet is a not for profit network for public health, health promotion and disease prevention in Europe. We offer a valuable platform for information, advice, policy and advocacy on health-related issues at EU-Level.

What is our mission?

Our mission is to improve health and equity for people.

In particular, EuroHealthNet works to:

- Monitor relevant policy developments at EU level and in member countries
- Manage and develop themed working groups, which form a basis for advocacy work in the field
- Disseminate, share and transfer information and expertise
- Coordinate projects between members and with the European Commission
- Maintain an effective dialogue with EU institutions and other international organisations

We pursue our goals through various projects in which EuroHealthNet has an active role as leader, coordinator or partner.

The main topics of our projects are:

- Promoting health and equity
- Determinants of health and health inequalities
- Health in All Policies

Some of our latest projects include:

The DETERMINE initiative establishes an EU Consortium for Action on the Socio-economic Determinants of Health which aims to take forward the work of the WHO Commission on the SDH in an EU context.

The GRADIENT research project addresses health inequalities among families and children with the aim of influencing policy-makers to take necessary steps to reduce the health gradient.

The aim of equitychannel.net is to use innovative communications to stimulate and support changes in policies at international, national and local levels, and to help bring about greater health equity for all.
